Mr. Greeley stated in his address, however, that his committee would take care that there would not be two Hepublican candidates in any district, and that it was ready to act with the Republican party as delegates at the Convention might from time to time make plain to them. He said the great issue would be the question of retorm in the city government. HALIFAX, August 3].

The four-oared race to-day was one of the most brilliant events in the annals of aquatic sports. The course was three nautical miles in length, and as the competing boats were required to double the course, the distance then was nearly seven miles. The morning was bright and clear, and gathered crowds of men who assembled upon the erected stands, and lined the docks and housetops along the city front. Shortly before the race, a sea breeze had sprung up, and the water was quite rough, especially, at the lower port course. In drawing positions, the Taylor crew got No. 1, while the Bigleu American crew got the worst position, outside near the castern shore harbor. At that time it was impossible to say which boat got to water first. The Roche HALIFAY, August 31.

The Americans lost two boat lengths turning by the stupidity of some judge or other official, which considerably increased the distant they had to make in turning. The Americans gained rapidly as soon as they got the course as smooth as that which the Englishmen were rowing. The contest between the three leading boats was intensely exciting for the last mile race. The result of the race created little excitement. The Americans believed that if their boys had not been crowded out to the worst part of the course, they would have won. The Bieleu crew say, that if their boys had not been crowded out to the worst part of the course, they would have won. The Bigleu crew say that their boat struck a half sunk piece of timber, which they think had the effect to throw them back and lose the race.
